“I choose to volunteer here because I believe in a place that includes everyone.”

At Women’s College Hospital, equity is more than an idea.

That’s why we’re deeply committed to an Equity Vision that’s based on the principles we want to live by. For instance, we believe that everyone at Women’s College – our volunteers, staff and physicians – must be culturally competent and culturally sensitive to the patients and visitors they serve. For Ruby and all of our volunteers, that means providing more than directions. It means taking each person’s unique needs into account – and helping them get where they need to go.
